

What is a reality fair?

The Bite of Reality money simulation transforms the classroom into a fun, interactive virtual city where teens adopt new identities. These new personas come with take home salaries along with obligations such as credit card and student loan debt, and maybe even a child! During the activity, students will have to navigate through financial decisions such as housing, transportation, kid care and food (along with others) and make some tough choices...while trying not to go broke!

- Identify Wants vs Needs
- Budget Household Income
- Establish a Savings Plan

Are you a teacher of financial education looking for a fun virtual activity?

All about the Florida Jumpstart Coalition:

Objectives:

To support those organizations and individuals in Florida that provide and support personal financial education programs and activities, with emphasis on the education of children and young adults.

To advocate for and encourage the creation of new personal financial education opportunities through engagement and partnerships with personal financial education providers, funders and community leaders.

To assist personal financial education providers in Florida in locating resources and facilitating partnership opportunities.

To educate community leaders, legislators and policymakers about the importance of personal financial education.

To provide a forum in which organizations involved with personal financial education can exchange ideas, experiences and best practices.
